25th International Conference

March 24-27, 2022 (re-scheduled dates)

Banámichi, Sonora, Mexico

The Anza Society International Conference is traditionally an annual event which takes place in the states where Juan Bautista de Anza lived, worked and explored. These include the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado in the United States and the state of Sonora in Mexico. The Anza Society studies the social structure, fabric and events surrounding the life of Juan Bautista de Anza (1736-1788) and his leadership as Captain of the Presidios of then Nueva Navarra, as well as his explorations that led to the founding of the City of San Francisco and his governorship of New Mexico.

The studies include not only the period when Anza lived, but also the period surrounding the arrival of the Jesuits to Nueva Navarra beginning in 1591, as well as the life and accomplishments of the indigenous peoples who were already residing in the area. Our past conference was held in Colorado Springs, Colorado in 2019. The 25th International Conference, previously scheduled for October 2021, in Banámichi, Sonora, Mexico (regrettably postponed due to COVID-19 concerns) will now take place.

Banámichi is a small village in the Sonora River founded in 1639 by the Society of Jesus. Anza and his father lived and worked in the area and in nearby Arizpe, and the now extinguished mining towns of Real de Motepore and Tetuachi. Banámichi, as well as Arizpe, retain much of the essence of the Spanish Colonial period and of the indigenous Opata peoples' agricultural canals system. Anza is buried in the Church of Arizpe.

While formal conference arrangements and the itinerary are being finalized, the board wanted to notify our mailing list to avoid delaying advance reservations and the Invitation to Present. As updates occur and additional documents become available, these will be posted to our main website.
